

Internet technical community Forum - 16 June 2008

COEX Center, Seoul, Korea, 9:30 am

On behalf of the Internet technical community it is our honour to invite you to attend a special open forum on the Future of the Internet economy on 16 June, in Seoul, Korea.

The Internet technical community, comprising a wide range of Internet-related organizations from around the world, has been actively preparing for the next OECD ministerial conference, to be held from 17 to 19 June in Korea.

The Internet technical community's Forum is designed to be a direct contribution to the ministers' work within three areas: Creativity, Confidence, and Convergence.

This forum will be a great opportunity for the Internet technical community, OECD member states' delegates and all other stakeholders (business, Civil Society) to share experiences and exchange perspectives on the "Future of the Internet Economy".

Deadline for registration 31 May 2008
